Special Guests: Prof. Ivana Elbl (Chief Editor PSR); Martin Malcolm Elbl (Associate Editor PSR); Prof. Maria João Dodman (President LSA)

The panel begins with presentations examining the Portuguese diaspora and identities in the Caribbean and Portuguese national identity based in the nineteenth century that were rooted in past exploration and colonization. The themes of colonialism are further explored in an analysis of colonial and post-colonial identities in Mozambique. The panel presentation then concludes with articles dealing with the contemporary Lusophone diaspora in Canada, in relation to “whiteness,” language, racism, and education in a multicultural context.
